

Juli Anna Burnett

Summary

Entry-level developer with a passion for adventure, new challenges, and helping others. I have ridden on the necks of elephants in Thailand, swam with sharks in Mexico, and learned to speak Korean in Seoul. I thrive on solving difficult problems in new and creative ways and find intellectually stimulating work environments the key to personal fulfillment. I have learned what a good attitude, sense of humor, and solid work ethic can mean to a team. I strive to embody all of these traits, both professionally and personally. Software development only recently made its way into my life, but has quickly become the source of a passion and creativity that I did not know I had.
